The Store with a Moneyback Guarantee*N. S. Sachs Dry Goods Co.*All Cars Transfer to Sachs' Corner*SOCIAL CHATTER AND HOME TALK*Bridge at Waikiki

One of the pretty affairs of last Saturday night was the bridge party given by Mrs. and Mr. McCandless at their residence at old Waikiki in honor of Paymaster and Mrs. Brooke and Miss Alice McCandless. The grounds and the view were brilliantly illuminated and the host and hostess received their guests on the broad lawn. Palms, greens and flowers made the rooms delightfully fragrant. Mrs. McCandless wore a very charming white frock and Miss McCandless wore a pretty pink frock which greatly became her. Pretty Mrs. Brooke looked delightfully girlish in white, with a cerise rose in her hair and a belt of the same color. Left of the fragrant carnation were given the prize winners, who were Mrs. G. C. Mrs. Hawes, Mr. Charles Wilder and Mr. Brooke. A supper, which was partaken of from little tables, ended a very pleasant evening. Among the guests were Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. Frederic Klump, Mr. and Mrs. Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Watson, Major and Mrs. Van Vleet, Dr. and Mrs. Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Farington, Mr. and Mrs. von Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Scott, Judge and Mrs. Lindsay, Miss Martin, Miss Spaulding, Miss Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Miss Blanchard, Messrs. Leslie Scott, Cushman Carter, George Fuller, Armstrong, H. Walker and many others.

Sophie Charlotte Coming

Captain Zander, of the training ship Sophie Charlotte, writes that he may return to Honolulu with his ship next year. They are now off the Coast of England, and report a very pleasant journey. Captain Zander and his officers were very popular in Honolulu and everybody will be glad to see him return.

Bliss Gives Dinner

Among the dinners given at the Moana Hotel on Sunday evening was the one of Mr. John H. Bliss, who entertained for Mrs. Avery, Miss Kaufmann, Miss Winston, Dr. Coffey and Dr. Sheldon. Mrs. Avery expects her husband to join her shortly and they will proceed to the Orient. Mrs. Avery's health which was very poor before arriving here, has been much improved by her sojourn in Honolulu.

Enjoy the Ranch

Miss Tillie Neumann, Miss Elsa Schaefer and Miss Lillie Puy are thoroughly enjoying their visit with Violet

Stakee at the Raymond ranch at Waikiki. They have been to dances and lunas and on Saturday evening attended the dance given in honor of the Honolulu tennis players. They are all very popular and do their share toward making the visit enjoyable.

Canavaro at Hospital

George Canavaro, who is at present in St. Luke's Hospital, St. Paul, Minn., will probably have to remain there for many months. The accident which he received when out shooting in a small boat far from the shore, by a gun going off at half cock and inflicting a serious injury to his foot, was probably one of the most painful things that could happen. He proved himself a hero, for he paddled for miles in the most agonizing pain, and upon reaching the shore boarded a train and rode for several hours until he finally reached his destination. That he did not faint was probably due to his wonderful nerve endurance. An amputation of the foot was first thought necessary, but now it can be saved, but Mr. Canavaro will always be lame. He has lost his school year in the Department of Forestry and he expected to spend a year or two at Yale. As he is young and of good courage he will probably finish at Yale. His father, Count Canavaro, is with him, and Harold Castle, who has recently returned from Europe, made him a flying visit.

Life at "The Dunes"

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Alexander of Oakland, Cal., are here visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Alexander, nee Barker of Oakland, was one of the belles of the place, and her family are prominent. Mr. Alexander, in company with Mr. Joseph Cooke and Mr. Andrew Adams, made a trip around the island this week. Mr. Alexander had not done this before since a boy, and was delighted with the rapid running in a motor car. Mrs. James Castle has such a pretty place at Laie. It was first built by Mr. Castle for a stable, and the house was to be on the dunes by the sea, but Mrs. Castle liked the place so well that her husband presented it to her. It is named "The Dunes" and for comfort and artistic furnishing it cannot be rivalled. The rafters all show and the floor is rough wood; the furniture is all haw, and the walls covered with famous studies of old masters. Palms, a piano, comfortable chairs and couches, tapestries, choice silver, glass and china go to make up a thoroughly comfortable and unpretentious abiding place. Mrs. Castle does not entertain at "The Dunes," but a few friends are always asked from time to time to keep her company. At present she is planting her garden and will add a new room to the ground floor for plants and statues. The principal charm of "The Dunes" is the restful feeling which it produces. The sea foaming in the distance, the green of the lawn, and the utter absence of noise produces a restful atmosphere which calms and soothes.

Miss Marx Gives Luncheon

A charming luncheon was given by Miss Drusilla Marx on Thursday complimentary to Mrs. Walter Brinkerhoff. Nine places encircled the table, which looked cool and inviting with a large pot of maidenhair in the center and maidenhair scattered over the snowy cloth. Those invited to meet Mrs. Brinkerhoff were Mrs. Alexander Lindsay, Mrs. B. Marx, Mrs. Mabel W. Castle, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Ranney Scott and Miss Jessie Kaufmann. After the luncheon many of the guests played bridge. Miss Marx looked very dainty in a pretty white frock and Mrs. Brinkerhoff wore one of her exquisite French frocks.

Bridge and Prizes

Mrs. Brock, who always entertains so well, gave a bridge party on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Alexander Scott won the hat pin which was given for the first prize and Mrs. Arthur Borg was consoled by a Salsuma belt buckle. There were six tables in all, and among those present were Mrs. Paxton, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Rudolf Stattery, Mrs. Augur, Mrs. Frederic Klump, Mrs. Alexander Scott, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Van Vleet, Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Berg, Mrs. Clinton Ballentyne, Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. de Wit, Mrs. Archie Young, Mrs. Edward Watson, Mrs. T. Peck, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Marx, Mrs. Finson, Misses Hardway, Marx, Gillet and Harvey.

Lewis' Bridge Party

Mrs. Harry Lewis' bridge afternoon, which she gave on Thursday in honor of Mrs. Porter Boyd, was a decided success. Mrs. Lewis, a handsome woman, received her guests in a lovely shawl embroidered frock, and Mrs. Porter Boyd looked both pretty and chic in an uncolored mull inset with lace insertions, a green belt, green shoes and bonnet, an emerald brooch and a hat with a touch of green made an artistic effect. Mrs. Alice Hastings won the first prize, a novel by Mrs. Francis Bennett, and a large bottle of

For those who are interested in hospitals in general and the Queen's Hospital in particular, the annual harvest home hospital tea, which has been found so successful in some places offers good suggestion.

In Pasadena, California, is a hospital which is known throughout California and the East for the unusual elegance and artistic beauty of its furnishings as well as for the excellence of its equipment. Though a comparatively small institution it excels in many ways, and physicians of national and international repute take interest in visiting it. It is not a free hospital, but is self-supporting, though it has one free ward and one part ward, and is the pet and the pride of the town.

For several years it has been the custom at the beginning of fall to set aside one day of reception when the hospital keeps "open house" as it were and all the town comes with gifts. The smart set of town attends to the social side of the affair and the wealthiest and most prominent women of town preside at the tea and coffee tables and assist the Hospital Superintendent in receiving the guests. Everybody wears her or his best clothes just as at a private tea and throughout the afternoon the streets leading to the attractive building are thronged with handsome equipages or automobiles bringing guests or taking them away, and many men as well as women attend. In the reception rooms are placed long tables and upon these are received the gifts, which include table and bed linen, tray cloths, china, cut glass, silver, pictures, furniture possibly, if any piece has been known to be needed; canned fruits and jellies, fresh fruits, wines, and the many things, mostly non-perishable, which will be of use in the hospital.

The secretary of the association is always present and to him come those who bring their donations in the form of checks or cash. These checks vary in size from the $1000, of the millionaire to the $1. of the poor laborer, and some there are who can give but a small 25-cent piece; but all these gifts are accepted thankfully, for all mean not only the increase of the hospital's balance in the bank, but that the city has the interests of the institution at heart. Usually enough jelly and canned fruit is brought to last the entire year or the greater part of it, and no housewife need give a large amount. Many there are who bring but one or two glasses each year. There are others who keep a dozen glasses at the hospital and once a year at jelly-making time take their glasses home and refill them, on the "life-membership" plan.

Some think of the nurses' welfare rather than of the patients and many of the gifts of dainty china or cut glass or silver are designated to be used in the nurses' dining-room; and these requests are always respected.

It is the thing for all the girls' clubs to sew for the hospital, and one club has taken upon itself the task of keeping the reception room of the nurses' bungalow in order, another attends to the diet kitchen, another furnishes the baby ward of the Maternity wing, and so on. By making the hospital the fashion, one of Society's pets, its interests are never forgotten.

An annual harvest home reception for the Queen's Hospital might prove an easy way to do a large amount of good and bring a little pleasure and brightness to many patients who otherwise would get little more than necessities.

sent was given Mrs. Fred Macfarlane, who won the second prize. The consolation was cut for and Mrs. Campbell-Parker was the successful winner of half a dozen dollies. Among those present were Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mrs. Campbell-Parker, Mrs. von Hamm, Mrs. Arthur Berg, Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. George Herbert, Mrs. Alice Hastings, Mrs. Emil Watermann, Miss Watermann, Mrs. Archie Young, Mrs. Clinton Ballentyne, Mrs. Frederic Klump, Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mrs. Alex Scott, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Fred Macfarlane, Miss Bertha Young, Miss Margaret MacIntire, Mrs. Harvey Murray, Miss Nannie Winston, Mrs. George Macfarlane, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Barraclough, Mrs. Halstead, Mrs. Arthur Wall, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Jr.

"The Toy Shop"

Miss Adele De l'Artigue, who will take the part of the Paris Doll in "The Toy Shop," is eminently fitted for the role, being both pretty, graceful and clever. Mrs. Andrew Fuller has charge of the ticket selling and she will be at the Waikiki lunal of the Hawaiian hotel next Monday morning from ten until twelve to deal them out to the various ones who have promised to dispose of them. It is a distinct pleasure to have something so delightful as "The Toy Shop" to look forward to, and with clever Miss Morton at the helm an artistic performance is assured. She is certainly wonderful, this Miss Martin, and everybody about her is influenced by the immense magnetism of her personality, and the work she gets out of the children! And they enjoy it so much, too. They are waiting to see "The Toy Shop" most impatiently.

Those in charge of the Central Union Fair are Mrs. L. K. Myers, and her assistants are:

Dolls—Mrs. W. E. Brown, Mrs. J. P. Cooke.

Candy—Mrs. J. A. Gilman.

Lemonade—Mrs. Fred Bush.

Fancy Work, Children's Clothing and Kimonos—Mrs. Raymond Brown, Mrs. F. Richardson, Mrs. Marston Campbell, Mrs. McClanahan, Mrs. R. Moore, Mrs. Riags, Mrs. Thurston, Mrs. Porteous, Mrs. Blaisell and others.

Refreshments—Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Angus, Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Campbell, Miss Parke and a number of girls who will assist in serving.

Children's Table—Mrs. Frear, Mrs. Baynes.

Amusements—Mrs. Edwin Hall, Miss

Madge McCandless, Miss Lorna Lauka, Mrs. Sophie Cooke and others.

Ex-Governor Cleghorn's natal day on Wednesday passed pleasantly, a large number of his friends calling and wishing him many happy returns of the day. The Governor received flowers and gifts. Although suffering from a succession of colds recently on Wednesday he looked particularly well.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson expect to leave on the Siberia. They have been guests at the Moana for several weeks. Dr. and Mrs. Hutton expect also to sail in the Siberia. Mrs. Hutton, a charming Britisher has been much admired.

The following program has been arranged for the Seamen's Institute concert this evening: Songs, Mrs. George Macfarlane; mandolin and guitars, Mr. C. W. C. Deering, Mr. Ernest Kaai and one other; Songs, Mr. Rudolf Johannes Buckley; violin solo, Miss Lucy O'Meara; song with guitar accompaniment, Mrs. Layard; monologue by Mrs. John Russell; song, Mrs. Gerrit Wilder; piano solos, Miss Fitz-Henry.

Violets and roses formed the prettiest table decorations at the luncheon given by Mrs. M. M. Scott on Thursday. The guests were Mrs. Walter Brinkerhoff, Mrs. Alexander Lindsay, Mrs. Porter Boyd, Mrs. James Wilder, Mrs. Henry Dutton, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Jr. and Miss Marion Scott.

Mrs. E. W. Jordan entertained at cards at her picturesque bungalow on Wyllie street on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Jordan entertains quite often, and one always has a good time at her house. Delicious refreshments waited away a pleasant hour after the game.

Miss Katydid Jones of Washington D. C., is a guest of Mrs. T. Peck. She is a sister of Consul Jones of Manchuria.

Miss Anna Paris has returned from a visit to Laie. Mrs. James Castle will motor up with the Brinkerhofs on Sunday, returning the first of the week.

Mr. George Thielen, a rising young broker, has sailed for the Coast, and will make his home in the East.

Do not forget the Central Union fair at the grounds of Mr. Lowrey this afternoon. There will be many articles sold suitable for Christmas presents.
